When Exceptional Design Is Just The Beginning

At VERDé Design Group, we think beyond design to create value for your project through complete landscape architecture solutions.

With a solid track record of surpassing expectations, we ensure our clients' projects stand out for all the right reasons. Unique integration of sustainability initiatives and bespoke design ensures our projects are a credit to the development and form part of a cohesive final product.

Understanding that great design influences user experience, our team work with clients to create distinctive, sustainable projects that communities will embrace, users will enjoy, and cities will be proud of.

VERDé has been creating exceptional spaces for more than a decade, completing over 120 residential, commercial and public projects across four countries, working with owners, developers and councils to deliver projects that are distinctive and memorable.

Every day, we seek out evolving technologies and engage with related disciplines in order to deliver leading edge solutions. Always open to inspiration, our work aims to inspire others in return.

When Quality Counts

VERDé's true commitment to quality often means exploring options that are never easy and following through with 100% dedication.

Founding the company in 2006, Director Christopher Mahoney's professionalism and approachable manner has set the tone for VERDé Design Group. His extensive horticultural and environmental design knowledge provides a sound platform for high quality project outcomes.

VERDé is known for our design difference and comes highly recommended by leading consultants, progressive government authorities, innovative developers and spirited communities to deliver projects all will be proud of. With a reputation for unwavering commitment to high quality, functional and creative design, we integrate the built form with the environment for sound and sustainable outcomes that deliver stunning, standout designs.

The VERDé team prides itself on delivering striking, successful projects of long-term value, working closely with clients to understand the brief, ensuring the landscape architecture is a credit to the context and forms part of a cohesive final product.

A Seamless Experience

VERDé focuses on long-term solutions regardless of project scale and complexity. Clients know us as their responsive 'go-to' landscape architect that produces exceptional results within nominated timeframes and budgets.

Valued for prioritising client perspectives and expectations, VERDé takes the time to really listen in order to understand and inform the decisions that demonstrate we think beyond design.

Our clients trust us, many returning due to the exceptional delivery of previous projects. At the core of our service, our focus remains on delivering a finished product that is an asset to our client's portfolio.

Put simply, we enhance all aspects of the space to deliver an exceptional end product and an enjoyable client experience.

When Reliability and Responsiveness Matter

At VERDé Design Group, we know that your goal is to create an exceptional project, on brief, on schedule and within budget.

That requires a Landscape Architect partner with solid project experience, demonstrated foresight and a commitment to exceptional design, all hallmarks of VERDé's service, to which our clients are more than willing to attest.

Our hands-on approach means that Director, Christopher Mahoney will play a key role in every project. You will have a consistent point of contact from start to finish, giving you unparalleled visibility and confidence in a shared vision for project delivery.

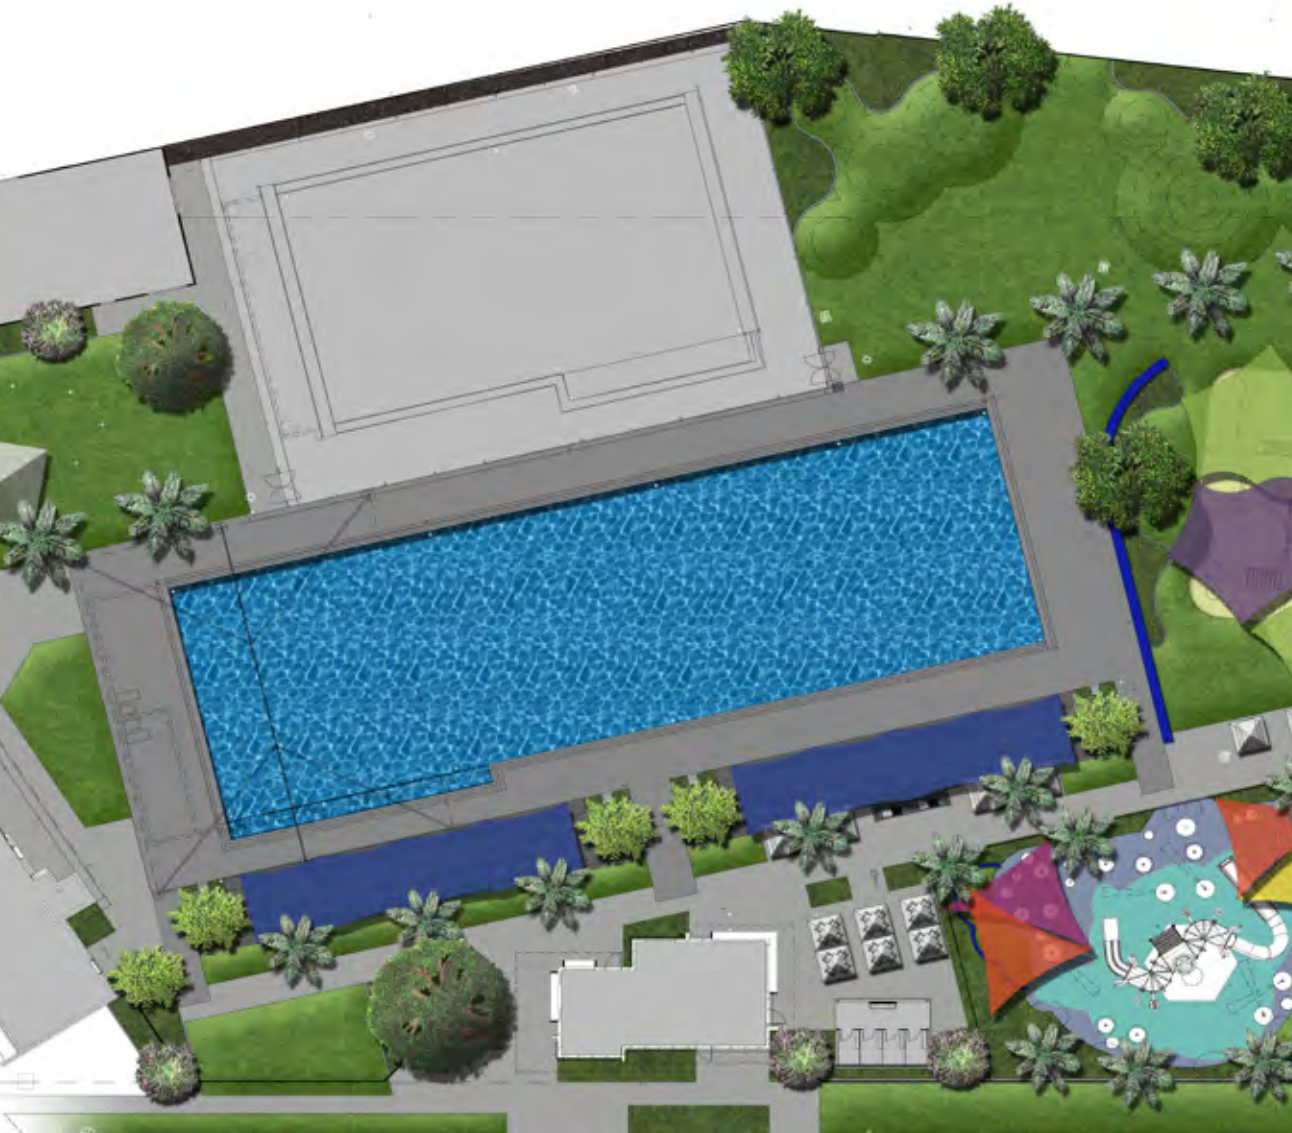

With over a decade in business, the VERDé team understands landscape architecture. Our clients trust us and repeat work is the core of our business, testament to both the standard of the final product we deliver, and our commitment to open communication, efficient project management, remarkable value and a consistent track record.

Our clients continue to engage us time and time again, and we plan to keep it that way.

What is a Landscape Architect and do I need one for my Project?

In a nutshell, Landscape Architecture is the ability to create aesthetic, functional spaces and places through creative and considered design - the work of Landscape Architects is all around us.

From small suburban pocket parks, local bikeways and inner city apartment developments to large-scale environmental projects, civic plazas and community parklands, Landscape Architects are engaged on projects at every scale.

Regardless of the size or nature of a project, Landscape Architects have the ability to combine design, engineering, art and science to create spaces that add value, protect our natural environment, enhance cultural and social diversity, and bring joy to users and the community.

When engaged for a project, Landscape Architects often work with a variety of creative professionals including Architects, Engineers, Access Consultants, Arborists, Soil Scientists, Artists, Sculptors and more. Landscape Architects thrive on collaboration and understand that the design process is a dynamic and evolving team effort - an approach that is essential to achieving project outcomes that go beyond expectations.

From Pre-Design and Analysis through to Construction and Post-Occupancy evaluations, VERDÉ Design Group will be with you and your project team every step of the way.

Finding the right Landscape Architect for your project is critical to achieving exceptional project outcomes that go beyond expectation.
